Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is also required under 35 U.S.C.

121:

- I. Claims 1- 5 drawn to a security server, classified in class 708 and subclass 135.
- II. Claims 6-14 drawn to a security server, classified in class 708 and subclass 135.
- III. Claims 15-18 drawn to communication of a facsimile system, classified in class 358, subclass 1.15.
- IV. Claims 19-21 drawn to a facsimile machine, classified in class 358, subclass 296.

2. Inventions (I, II), III, IV are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination (III) as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination (I, II), IV as claimed for patentability and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination (a facsimile system) as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability because: the specific in the subcombination claim 1 recites, for example, a security server controller to receive the security information from the receiving facsimile machine and to update the received security information to the security server controller, is particular which is not required in the combination (claim 15) for patentability, and the subcombination (I) has separate utility such as providing security information for a network.

The specific in the subcombination claim 19 recites, for example, an operation panel to input user information and request document data, is particular which is not required in the combination (claim 15) for patentability, and the subcombination (I) has separate utility such as fax to a computer.

3. Invention (I, II) and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination has separate utility as previously discussed. See MPEP 806.05(d).

4. Invention (I, II) contains claims directed to patentably distinct species.

I. Species directed to paragraph [0013] of Specification.

II. Species directed to paragraph [0017] of Specification.

5. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the invention has acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
  - (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their divergent subject matter;
  - (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
  - (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention
  - (e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.
6. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the restriction may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.
7. The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

8. Shall applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence of admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

9. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Allen H. Nguyen whose telephone number is 571-270-1229. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F from 9:00 AM-6:00 PM.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, King Poon can be reached on (571)-272-7440. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
